

The Lexington Community Center

In July of 2015, the town purchased the property and building from the Scottish Rite Museum. The building opened as the Lexington Community Center to the town residents in July 2015.

Community Ctr. photo courtesy of the Lex250 website.

The Lexington Field & Garden Club maintains the garden beds around the community center. In the rear of the center are raised beds. Zhili Xin is the steward along with volunteers from the garden club.

Photos above are courtesy of Zhili Xin.

In 2019, The Furnstahl Sensory Garden dedicated to John and Delores Furnsthal. It is located at the rear of the Community Center. At the rear of the Center are raised garden beds which are also maintained by the garden club.

Photos courtesy of Regina Sutton.

